GOALS AND OUR LIFE AS A CHURCH

- ❖ Seeking to be guided by love of God, love of others, being in community, seeking to be of service.
- ❖ Church services and classes being vital and central.
- ❖ Nurturing teamwork and community throughout the church.
- ❖ The church welcoming diversity of people working together as one.
- ❖ Developing a pervasive spirit of caring in the church community.
- ❖ The church developing as welcoming of all generations (from children to senior).
- ❖ Concerted efforts to involve young people more fully in the life of the church. Perhaps with aid from adults, having leadership emerge from young people. Involvement of young people in service projects in the community.
- ❖ Strengthening of programs for seniors, drawing on resources both within and outside the church.
- ❖ Developing processes for ministry preparation.
- ❖ Growth of participation from the congregation in the church activities.

HISTORY OF THE CHURCH

New Jerusalem Church

Circa 1845

The foundation of the Boston Society of the New Jerusalem (BSNJ) can be traced back to 1784 and the Green Dragon Tavern in Boston. It was then and there that admirers of, and those interested in learning more about, Emanuel Swedenborg first met to hear a lecture on Swedenborg by James Glen. In 1818, twelve people, some of whom were among the early "Green Dragon Tavern crowd," organized a Swedenborgian Church in the city. Chartered in 1823, the Boston Society of the New Jerusalem, Inc. is the first Swedenborgian Church established in Massachusetts. Members of the Church met at several locations before finally settling in 1845 at its present location atop Beacon Hill. The location inspired the name by which many today know the society: the Church on the Hill (Swedenborgian). Through the years, noted BSNJ members include Timothy Harrington Carter, publisher, and founder of the Old Corner Book Store; Sampson Reed, writer and mentor of Ralph Waldo Emerson; Lydia Maria Child, author, social activist and abolitionist; Warren Felt Evans, writer and healer; Theophilus Parsons, dean of Harvard Law School; Otis Clapp, apothecary, publisher, member of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, co-founder of The Massachusetts Institute of Technology (M.I.T.), Boston University, and founder of The Home for Little Wanderers; Theophilus P. Chandler, architect; Clarence Barron, financier, editor of the Wall Street Journal, and president of Dow Jones; George James Webb, hymnologist; and The Honorable Malcolm Nichols, Mayor of Boston. A beautiful Gothic Revival structure served the membership until the 1960s when it was replaced with a new Church building and an eighteen story high-rise apartment. Today, the main sanctuary of the Church is accessible from Bowdoin Street. The Church has also served as a place of worship and gatherings for the local Muslim Community and other faith-based communities. The Church has organized and runs many programs to meet the needs of the Church community and larger surrounding neighborhood.

Use of the Church facility is offered to human service and outreach organizations.

From Michael Bancewicz

Hello Everyone!!

WHAT A WONDERFUL SUMMER WE HAVE HAD!!!

Through out the summer members and friends of the church have been out in the Boston Common on Monday nights helping serve the homeless. We broke records by sending 335 people to Six Flags. The Senior Outing to go see Mama Mia was a big hit! Lets not forget yours truly officiated his first wedding for members Michael and Tammy Liang with 100 guests in attendance while Carlton and Victor performed. We have been hearing great feedback on the variety of clergy and speakers we have had on Sundays. Mary Guarino's Summer Social was a great success as was the Fourth of July, both of which happened on our roofdeck. On a personal note I donated my ponytail and turned 50 in the same week.

And Hey! Have you been checking out the church website or Facebook page??

NEW THIS MONTH

Sunday September 9, is our "Back to Church" Sunday so we are hoping to see many of you there and perhaps bring a friend so we can make the fellowship luncheon a festive and energized pep rally. Rev. Joan Murray will be delivering the sermon.

September 16, Sister Linda Bessom, SND, will be delivering the sermon. Additionally she will be seeking linen donations for "A Bed For Every Child". (Please see page 7 on how you can help). All of the September offerings will be donated to this as well.

We are going to be hosting the "Max Reger Foundation Concert Series" see page 4. This is quite exciting anticipating the up coming talent throughout the year.

Vagabonds "Open Mic" Coffee House, this will take place in our function room on the third Wednesday evening of each month, see page 5.

We are going to have our Sock Drive again as we stock up for the Sunday Night Sock Walk that begins in October.

We are working with Oasis Coalition to hold weekly cooking classes for newly housed folks.

Also we are looking for volunteers to be on the organizing committee for the 23rd Homeless Memorial Service. The committee will meet once a month for Sept, Oct, Nov, and December.

PASTOR SEARCH UPDATE

The search committee (Susanne Rogers-Chair, Maria MacKenzie, Mary Guarino, Amy Marino, Carlton Doctor and myself), are interviewing clergy to act as Intrim Pastor. Once we have this individual in place we will be sending out a survey to everyone asking various questions regarding what you feel are our strengths and weaknesses as well as what you would like to see in the future, at which point we will begin putting all of our energy in a slow and methodical process of finding a pool of candidates to interview for the permanent position.

Peace and Love,

Michael

Ps. Looking for volunteers to help plant tulips on the Boston Common this fall. (Partnership with Boston Parks and Recreation)

ROMANS 1:16-17

For I am not ashamed of the gospel, because it is the power of God that brings salvation to everyone who believes: first to the Jew, then to the Gentile. For in the gospel the righteousness of God is revealed—a righteousness that is by faith from first to last, just as it is written: "The righteous will live by faith."

September, 1918

BY AMY LOWELL

This afternoon was the colour of water
falling through sunlight;
The trees glittered with the tumbling of leaves;
The sidewalks shone like alleys of dropped
maple leaves,
And the houses ran along them laughing out
of square, open windows.
Under a tree in the park,
Two little boys, lying flat on their faces,
Were carefully gathering red berries
To put in a pasteboard box.
Some day there will be no war,
Then I shall take out this afternoon
And turn it in my fingers,
And remark the sweet taste of it upon my palate,
And note the crisp variety of its flights of leaves.
To-day I can only gather it
And put it into my lunch-box,
For I have time for nothing
But the endeavour to balance myself
Upon a broken world.

Amy Lawrence Lowell was an American poet of the imagist school from Brookline, Massachusetts who posthumously won the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry in 1926.

Amy Lawrence Lowell (February 9, 1874 – May 12, 1925) was an American poet of the imagist school from Brookline, Massachusetts who posthumously won the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry in 1926. Lowell was born into Brookline's prominent Lowell family, sister to astronomer Percival Lowell and Harvard president Abbott Lawrence Lowell.

She never attended college because her family did not consider that proper for a woman, but she compensated with avid reading and near-obsessive book collecting. She lived as a socialite and travelled widely, turning to poetry in 1902 after being inspired by a performance of Eleonora Duse in Europe.

Lowell was said to be lesbian, and in 1912 she and actress Ada Dwyer Russell were reputed to be lovers. Russell is reputed to be the subject of her more erotic work, most notably the love poems contained in 'Two Speak Together', a subsection of Pictures of the Floating World. The two women traveled to England together, where Lowell met Ezra Pound, who at once became a major influence and a major critic of her work. Pound considered her embrace of Imagism to be a kind of hi-jacking of the movement, and among his friends he referred to her as the "hippo-poetess". Lowell has been linked romantically to writer Mercedes de Acosta, but the only evidence of any contact between them is a brief correspondence about a planned memorial for Duse.

Lowell died of a cerebral hemorrhage in 1925 at the age of 51. The following year, she was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry for What's O'Clock. That collection included the patriotic poem "Lilacs", which Louis Untermeyer said was the poem of hers he liked best.

Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless
Church on the Hill
Sunday September 16th

On Sunday September 16th Sister Linda Bessom SND, Faith Into Action Together Coordinator of the Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless will be our guest preacher.

On that day, Church on the Hill is also partnering with the Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless' "A Bed for Every Child Initiative" by collecting new:

- twin sized sheets (top, fitted bottom and pillow case)
- pillows
- twin size blankets
- twin size bed spreads

A Bed for Every Child Initiative began last fall as a project of the Massachusetts Coalition for the Homeless' Furniture Bank, when the Coalition's Homelink staff learned that many students in the Lynn Public Schools were coming to school very tired because they did not have a bed of their own. Their parents could not afford to replace or buy a new bed for their child. Many were sleeping on the floor or with a parent or sibling. Without sufficient sleep, students can not learn. Education is a way to move beyond poverty. It is important to assist children to have the tools they need to succeed in school. One of these is a bed. This past school year the Coalition distributed approximately 400 new beds that included: a mattress, a box spring, and complete set of bedding.

The Coalition will be expanding this Initiative to the Boston Public Schools in 2012-13. Sister Linda Bessom SND will be speaking briefly regarding this Initiative and how we can help. Envelopes will also be provided for financial contributions. Each bed with bedding costs $250 and includes the delivery. Our Church will be joining other schools and congregations in support of this Initiative. Please be as generous as possible. Thank you!

What's Happening This September?

Now that the beach chairs have been packed up and put away, Boston is once again bustling with new activity. Back to school and back to work, city goers have returned to create an exciting hub of activity celebrating the beginning of the crisp autumn season. Although some may feel despair with the lovely outdoor weather slowly fading, rest assured that there is still plenty to do and see before the harsher days of winter appear. New England is famous for this time of year with her leaves changing every shade of color, igniting inspiration from every angle. Grab your walking shoes, cameras and jackets and get ready for a fabulous month of fun events!

Michael Bancewicz
Congregational Director
Church on the Hill
140 Bowdoin Street
Boston, MA 02108

To the Members, Clergy and Staff of the Church on the Hill:

It is with great pleasure for us to thank you, once again, for opening your doors and hearts to the cause of helping deserving, less-fortunate children gain a quality musical education. The Max Reger Foundation of America (MRFOA) is honored to be so generously assisted by the arts program at the Church on the Hill, which will allow MRFOA to help children actually achieve their dreams.

The MRFOA Board of Directors was elated to learn from Carlton Doctor of the "Max Reger Foundation" 2012-2013 Concert Series to be held at the Church on the Hill. Your commitment to the arts inspires us in our efforts. You are truly a remarkable congregation and the Foundation truly appreciates your support.

This past year, MRFOA granted scholarships to six very talented children, ranging in age 14-16, with their musical education. Students in our programs attend top-notch pre-college programs at the New England Conservatory and the Manhattan School of Music. One of these students you already know from her performance at the Church on the Hill last January: Phuong Nghi Pham - who is a veteran of the Young Artists Awards program now for six years. Phuong Nghi has developed astonishing musical and academic skills during this period and has even performed at Symphony Hall, NPR's program "On the Top" and, most recently, won the Young Artists Competition at the Boston Pops. We are very proud of her accomplishments.

Simple Acts of Kindness...

Twenty years ago, I drove a cab for a living. One time I arrived in the middle of the night for a pick up at a building that was dark except for a single light in a ground floor window. Under these circumstances, many drivers would just honk once or twice, wait a minute, then drive away. But I had seen too many impoverished people who depended on taxis as their only means of transportation. Unless a situation smelled of danger, I always went to the door. This passenger might be someone who needs my assistance, I reasoned to myself. So I walked to the door and knocked.

"Just a minute," answered a frail, elderly voice.

I could hear something being dragged across the floor. After a long pause, the door opened. A small woman in her 80's stood before me. She was wearing a print dress and a pillbox hat with a veil pinned on it, like somebody out of a 1940s movie. By her side was a small nylon suitcase.

The apartment looked as if no one had lived in it for years. All the furniture was covered with sheets. There were no clocks on the walls, no knickknacks or utensils on the counters. In the corner was a cardboard box filled with photos and glassware.

"Would you carry my bag out to the car?" she said. I took the suitcase to the cab, then returned to assist the woman. She took my arm and we walked slowly toward the curb. She kept thanking me for my kindness.

"It's nothing," I told her. "I just try to treat my passengers the way I would want my mother treated."

"Oh, you're such a good boy," she said. When we got in the cab, she gave me an address, then asked, "Could you drive through downtown?"

"It's not the shortest way," I answered quickly.

"Oh, I don't mind," she said. "I'm in no hurry. I'm on my way to a hospice."

I looked in the rear view mirror. Her eyes were glistening.

"I don't have any family left," she continued. "The doctor says I don't have very long."

I quietly reached over and shut off the meter. "What route would you like me to take?" I asked.

For the next two hours, we drove through the city. She showed me the building where she had once worked as an elevator operator. We drove through the neighborhood where she and her husband had lived when they were newlyweds. She had me pull up in front of a furniture warehouse that had once been a ballroom where she had gone dancing as a girl.

Sometimes she'd ask me to slow in front of a particular building or corner and would sit staring into the darkness, saying nothing.

As the first hint of sun was creasing the horizon, she suddenly said, "I'm tired. Let's go now."

We drove in silence to the address she had given me.

It was a low building, like a small convalescent home, with a driveway that passed under a portico. Two orderlies came out to the cab as soon as we pulled up. They were solicitous and intent, watching her every move. They must have been expecting her. I opened the trunk and took the small suitcase to the door. The woman was already seated in a wheelchair.

"How much do I owe you?" she asked, reaching into her purse.

"Nothing," I said.

"You have to make a living," she answered.

"There are other passengers."

Almost without thinking, I bent and gave her a hug. She held onto me tightly.

"You gave an old woman a little moment of joy," she said. "Thank you."

I squeezed her hand, then walked into the dim morning light. Behind me, a door shut. It was the sound of the closing of a life.

I didn't pick up any more passengers that shift. I drove aimlessly, lost in thought. For the rest of that day, I could hardly talk. What if that woman had gotten an angry driver, or one who was impatient to end his shift? What if I had refused to take the run, or had honked once, then driven away? On a quick review, I don't think that I have done anything more important in my life. We're conditioned to think that our lives revolve around great moments. But great moments often catch us unaware—beautifully wrapped in what others may consider a small one.

Folks,

We are all very saddened with the loss of our dear friend Vera. At the same time, having just returned from her funeral, I am extremely joyful in knowing her and hearing the wonderful reminiscence of her family. We hold the entire DeRosa family in our prayers. Farewell Dear Friend.

Elvira M. DeRosa, 95 years of age, died on Monday, September 03, 2012. Survived by sisters Mary G. & Alice A. DeRosa and brothers Nicholas C., Anthony P. and Leonard J. DeRosa. She was predeceased by Ella M. and Michael D. DeRosa.

Elvira worked for many years at the Phillips House - MGH as a nutritionist in the Dietary Dept.

Funeral from the Boston Harborside Home, 580 Commercial St. BOSTON MA 02109 at 9am on Thursday, Sept. 6, for a Mass at St. Joseph's Church in the West End at 10am followed by interment at St. Michael's Cemetery, Boston. Codeword is a special crossword puzzle in which conventional clues are omitted. Instead, answer words in the diagram are represented by numbers. Each number represents a different letter of the alphabet, and all of the letters of the alphabet are used. When you are sure of a letter, put it in the code key chart and cross it off in the alphabet box. A group of letters has been inserted to start you off.
